If the body is weak because it is not properly nourished, the organs will be weak. So also will the weakness be found in back and knees, hands and feet equally. So also will the weakness be found in the heart, liver, kidneys, etc. being properly nourished according to the amount of the strength of the body.

Servants of Santa Claus

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.
(Copyright, 1903, by American Press Association.)

THE usual conception of Santa Claus is that of a rather innocent, unsophisticated, though benevolent old gentleman who visits all the houses in Christendom on the night of Dec. 24 and leaves presents for all good children and even reprobates who are not so good. But this idea fails to do the busy old fellow justice. As a matter of fact, he has to be quite up to date to attend much for him to do modern methods. Nowadays it is essential for every large business to be carried out through an army of assistants and deputies, and who, pray, has a larger business than Santa Claus? When he might have been possible for him to make a personal visit to all the homes where his gifts were expected, but now all that is changed. So he drafts the expressman, the messenger boy, the postman, the delivery man and a host of other folk into his service. For example, he appoints as deputies in the United States alone about thirty thousand express companies, during the two weeks before Christmas, when Santa calls on them to carry so many of his packages, they have to double their forces. The Christmas companies in the city alone of New York, Chicago and Philadelphia about a million and a half each, in Boston over a million and in other cities a proportionate number. When it is reflected that this is an average of nearly one package for every man, woman and

THEIR CH SURPRISE.

"THIS year," said Cartwright firmly, "there are going to be no Christmas surprises in my happy home—none of those pleasant little attempts at play."

Santa Claus which he was with a sense and effort and a determination to take my wife down and pick out anything she wanted, and then I'm going to let her take me around and fix me up with a pair of embroidered suspenders, a gold cuff links or any old thing she likes and that will make her happy. No, I got us quite got over the effects of the last holiday season yet.

"You see, we had been married just long enough last Christmas to wear out our first installment of furniture and most of our wedding gifts. Things were looking a little shabby around the house, so we both agreed in selecting our little remembrances for one another we ought to confine ourselves to something which would be mutually useful and attractive. Both of us had been secretly longing for a morris chair, one of the mission things with big leather cushions that swivel you up in a delirious ecstasy. Mrs. C. wanted it for the library and her afternoon slippers, and I wanted it for evening recreation.

"Months before the Christmas season I began putting by a little sum weekly, with the morris chair in mind. Two weeks before the 25th I went down to a dealer's to look at chairs. I had been looking casually for weeks before, but it was not until I came upon this particular shop that I discovered what I wanted. It was a beauty in the darkest and finest of weathered oak, with all attachments and cushions were of big leather cushions that swivel you up in a delirious ecstasy. Mrs. C. wanted it for the library and her afternoon slippers, and I wanted it for evening recreation.

"I had sold the chair, he believed; and he had given a gentleman an opportunity to see it, and the gentleman had paid a deposit, but if I could find a name something might be done. "When my wife spelled out her cognomen for him he lifted his eyebrows in astonishment. That was exactly the name and those were the initials of the gentleman who had already spoken for a morris chair. My wife thought for a moment. Then she controlled her emotions and merely remarked that such coincidences were quite common and walked out without remarking her address.

"Next day I lied me to the dealer's quarters, prepared to leave my order for the chair. But the dealer did not seem half so inclined to sell. A lady had been there, it seems, a lady of my own name, with the same initials—Ours, it was not—was willing to give the full price for the article. Then it was my turn to think. On the whole, I decided I did not want the chair after all. If Ellen wanted to buy it, I'd let her have that pleasure.

"Christmas morning we both fussed about the house expectantly. I wondered where on earth Ellen was keeping my morris chair. After breakfast I unloaded a pair of green portieres and brought her a morris chair. "But," I stammered, "I bought a morris chair." "Oh, John, didn't you know after all?" "And then, in the light of our understanding, we wept on one another's shoulders."—New York Press.

TAKE LAMP

Will Help You

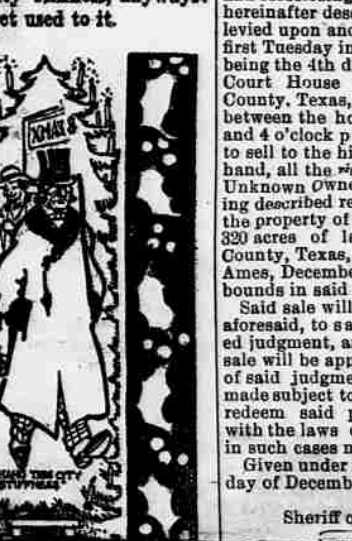

"Before I began to take Carlin, I suffer I was afraid to lie down at night. After take it I felt better in a week. Now my legs are as strong as a horse. I can sleep like a child. I am as healthy as a horse."—Try Carlin.

An' there's feasting. Think o' feedin' with these stuck up city folk! Why, you have to speak in whispers, an' you haven't crack a joke. Then remember how the tables looked all crowded with your kin. When you couldn't hear a whistle blow across the merry din.

You see, I'm so old-fashioned-like I don't care much for style. An' to eat your Christmas banquet here I wouldn't go a mile. I'd rather have, like Solomon, a good yarb dinner set With real old friends than turtle soup with all the nob's you'd get.

There's my next door neighbor, Gurley—fancy how his brows 'ud lift If I'd holler: "Merry Christmas! Caught, old fellow! Christmas gift!" Lordy sakes, I'd like to try it! Guess he'd nearly have a fit. Hang this city stiffness, anyway! I can't get used to it.

Then your heart it keeps a-swellin' till it nears—side, 'in' by night y with you wide, An' your en' you'd just grab 'Mebbe both of us was Come, let's shake it."

Little Christmas spirit seems dwell 'tween city walls, Each snowflake brings a soot for a brother as it falls. Little Christmas spirit, an' plain, don't you know, Good old fashioned Christmas like we had so long ago.

Looking One's Best It's a woman's delight to look her best with pimples, skin eruptions, sores and boils rob life of joy. Listen! Buck's Arnica Salve cures them. The skin soft and velvety. Cold sores, Ors, Hands. Try it. 25c at W. S. Sedberry's.

A New York woman wrote me a counterfeited note. I told her the principle of the note was to pass in front of a passing lens.

SHERIFF'S SALE

No. 7681.

By virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the District Court of the Fifth Judicial District of Texas, in and for Marion County, Texas, on the 6th day of December, A. D. 1909, in a certain cause wherein the State of Texas is Plaintiff and J. D. Atkinson et al. are Defendants, upon a certain judgment rendered in said Court on the 2nd day of November, A. D. 1909, in favor of the said State of Texas, Plaintiff, and against the said J. D. Atkinson et al. Defendants, for the sum of One Hundred and Twenty Dollars and twenty cents, and interest thereon at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of said judgment, together with all costs of suit, and foreclosing a tax lien upon the hereinafter described property, I have levied upon and seized, and will, on the first Tuesday in January, 1910, the same being the 4th day of said month, at the Court House door, of said Marion County, Texas, in the City of Jefferson, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. on said day, proceed to sell to the highest bidder for cash in hand, all the right, title and interest of J. D. Atkinson et al. in and to the following described real estate, levied upon as the property of J. D. Atkinson et al., viz: 320 acres of land situate in Marion County, Texas, and patented to Charles Amos, December 18th 1849, metes and bounds in said patent.

Said sale will be made by me, as aforesaid, to satisfy the above described judgment, and the proceeds of said sale will be applied to the satisfaction of said judgment. Said sale will be made subject to the Defendants' right to redeem said property in accordance with the laws of the State of Texas in such cases made and provided.

Given under my hand this, 14th day of December, A. D. 1909.

W. B. STALLCUP, Sheriff of Marion County, Texas.
